COOS BAY.

COOS CITY, June 13, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Among the many interesting and profitable industries of Coos Bay,

SHIPBUILDING

Forms a prominent part, and deserves special mention. A. M. Simpson & Bro., of North Bend, are the pioneer shipbuilders on the bay. They commenced business in 1858 and built the schooner Arago that year. She was followed by the Bianco, Juvenile, Hannah, Louisa, Isabella, Enterprise, Advance, Mendocino, Occident, Melancthon, Bonkalation, Webfoot, Volunta and the Oregonian. There is one now on the stocks, not yet named. The tonnage of those built run from 150 to 500 tons. The brigantine now being built will have a carrying capacity of 1,000 tons or 600,000 feet of lumber. Those built were for the coasting trade. Some of them are well known favorites with the shipping trade of Portland, such as the Melancthon, Webfoot and Oregonian. The one on the stocks is intended to run between Portland and China, if the trade warrants it. She will be the largest and finest vessel ever built in the Bay, and will be ready for sea in August. This makes fifteen vessels built by this enterprising firm, making an average of one built every year since they commenced in 1868. They were all built of Oregon timber, principally of yellow fir and finished with white cedar or maple. The length and superiority of the fir timber of the Bay may be inferred from the fact that the keel of the vessel on the stocks is all one stick, 160 feet long, whereas it is not uncommon to have to use three for a similar length of keel.

Mr. John Pershbaker, formerly the owner of the Marshfield lumber mills and the Eastport coal mines, built three vessels at his ship yard at Marshfield, called the Ivanhoe, Staghorn and Amelia; also the tugboat Escort which cost him $40,000, one of the most beautiful models and most efficient towboats on the Pacific coast. This boat and some of the finest vessels on the bay were designed and built by Mr. John H. Howlett of Coos Bay, who gets the credit of being the best designer and ship builder on the coast.

A. B. Dean & Co., of Marshfield, have lately bought Mr. Pershbaker's interest in his property there, including lumber mill, towboat, town site, and considerable land, as well as his ship yard. They intend continuing the ship building as soon as they get the establishment in full working order.

THE SHIPPING BUSINESS

Of the bay is considerable, and is a pretty good indication of the extent of the business carried on between Coos Bay and San Francisco. There are at least an average of twenty vessels trading regularly between those two ports, that make the round trip on an average of once a month—equal to 240 arrivals and the same number of departures in the year. These vessels are principally employed in conveying lumber and coal to San Francisco and returning with cargoes of general merchandise for the merchants of the bay and the Coquille river valley. Last year the lumber and coal trade of the bay was very active, such was the demand for both that there were frequently as many as thirty arrivals in the month.

The Eastport Mining Company, two miles above Marshfield, built and run the steamship Eastport for the coal trade to San Francisco. She makes two round trips in the month, carrying for cargo 450 tons coal each time; a certain quantity of lumber, hides, etc. This company are building another and a larger steamer for the same trade. Flanagan & Mann, of Newport Coal Mines, contemplate running a line of steamers in connection with their coal mine also. This is the result of the steady and successful development of the lumber, and particularly the coal business of the Bay and the reasonable and certain progress of these great interests on a large scale, in due time. To the close observer, the future of the lumber and coal trade and the general business of Coos Bay are of great magnitude, vast importance in developing the great resources of the material interests of the State.

THE BAR OF COOS BAY.

This bar, like the bar of the Columbia, has been a convenient handle for the designing to promote their own selfish schemes, by representing its dangers and horrors so as to deter, if possible, opposition and competition in the shipping business. All such efforts have proved abortive. There are 12 feet of water on the bar at low water and 17 feet at full tide. The channel of the Bay at the bar has changed several times, occasioned by the shifting of the sand, but no change has taken place in the channel for the last eighteen months. The splendid towboat, appropriately called the Escort, that is in constant attendance at the bar, takes out and in vessels of all sizes with as much safety as if sailing in a river. This class of selfish men do much harm for a time, but their sins are sure to find them out.

THE COAL BEDS OF COOS BAY

That have been discovered during the last two years, and that will shortly be opened, are of greater magnitude than would be readily credited except by those who have visited and examined them.

Mr. B. B. Jones, who represents a number of leading capitalists in San Francisco, has taken up or purchased 2,800 acres of coal beds in the mountains back of Empire City and three miles from the bay, that could not be easily over valued. These coal beds will be opened this summer, and a railroad built from three to four miles long, to convey the coal to the deep waters of the bay for shipment.

Mr. Wm. Utter, who represents other capitalists in San Francisco also, has secured 1,600 acres of coal beds in the Blue Mountains, back of the divide that separates the waters of Coos Bay from Coquille river. As many as eight veins of coal beds have already been discovered there that measure from 3½ to 9 feet in thickness. This is probably the most extensive and valuable coal field yet found in connection with Coos Bay. Active mining operations will be commenced this summer, and a railroad built from the mines to the deep waters of Isthmus slough and extended back to the Coquille river—six miles in all. This enterprise, if carried out, will be of great value to the Company and of vast importance in opening up the Coquille valley to the advantages of the trade of Coos Bay, to direct shipments to and from San Francisco and Portland, and to the convenient and rapid settlement of the valuable timber and bottom lands of the Coquille river valley.

These statements are not the result of hearsay, but of close inspection and personal examination. They go far to explain the cause of the recent emigration to Coos Bay and the extensive settlement going on in the Coquille river valley, the forks and branches of that beautiful river.

NORTHWEST.

From Vienna comes the gratifying intelligence that a lot of cartoons after Raphael, representing the average Cincinnati hog in his best lights, internal and external, have arrived at the Great Exposition and are now in place. It is also pleasing to note with what fidelity the Porkopolis of the West holds to her one great speciality. Cincinnati for hogs, and Louisville for whisky. Kentucky should send a barrel of her best Bourbon and a representative citizen. We forget: Watterson, of the Courier-Journal, has gone, and he can represent both very well.

THE TERRITORIES.

Four fat men of Walla Walla lift the beam at 1,100 pounds.

Fifteen couples have been married at one hotel in Walla Walla in the last fifteen months.

Two horses died one day last week at Steilacoom, from what was supposed to be the epizooty.

Forty stand of arms have been furnished the Idaho Rangers, a military company at Boise City.

The new Postmaster of Walla Walla, S. D. Smith, has received his commission and taken possession of his office.

Private letters say Gen. Davis has expressed an intention to recommend that five companies of troops be stationed at Walla Walla.

From private letters we learn that the Waldron troupe had played to two full houses in Idaho City, and had bills out for a third performance.

Gen. Milroy, Superintendent of Indian Affairs for Washington Territory, has asked Olympia for the use of her jail, to put disorderly Indians in.

A lady of Greeley, Colorado Territory, has abandoned the needle for the plow, and has done plain sowing to the extent of 18 acres of wheat. She had formerly been accustomed to sewing tares.

The Idaho Statesman says: "Never in the history of Boise valley has the fruit and grain crop promised to be so fruitful as the present season, which, in conjunction with the good mining season in the Basin, is very encouraging for the country."

Returns of the Assessors shows the value of property in nine counties of Washington Territory, to be as follows: Clarke, $689,471; Island, $507,441; Kitsap, $772,335; Klickitat, $292,415; Pacific, $557,236; Skamania, $144,540; Wahkiakum, $152,550; Stevens, $361,028; Yakima, $439,243.

The firm of Bailey & McCurdy, of the San Juan lime kiln, has been awarded a contract to furnish one thousand barrels of lime to the Washington Territory penitentiary. The first lot of 175 barrels was taken to Steilacoom on the 8th inst., on the schooner Ontario, by Mr. William McCurdy.

The Olympia Tribune says: "Owing to the cold and damp weather of the last two days, many of the horses afflicted with the episootic that were recovering, have since relapsed, and are in as bad condition as they were a week ago. As a general thing, however, the disease is abating. Some few horses have entirely escaped it."

Several families—thirty two persons in all—left Mount Zion, Illinois, on the 28th ult., for Walla Walla valley. The party have nine good teams and covered spring wagons, and are well provided with everything for their own comfort, including several small stoves. They propose to make the trip in about sixteen weeks.

James Pickett, sentenced to be hanged on the 25th of July, for killing a Nez Perce squaw last August, near Pine City, was taken over from Lewiston to Boise City by Marshal Pinkham and lodged in the Penitentiary. Report says Pickett will probably hang. The evidence showed it to have been a horrible murder, with no palliating circumstances.

The Assessor of Stevens county, W. T., returns 275 dwellings, 148 farms, 582 white males, 276 white females, 174 colored males, 26 colored females, 327 foreign born males, 27 foreign born females, 262 married couples, 124 attend school, 4 blind, 378 can read, 424 cannot write, 354 male citizens over 21 years old. Clarke county returns 606 dwellings, 491 farms, 1,602 white males, 1,380 white females, 4 colored males and 2 colored females; number of foreign born males 282, females 183; 415½ acres farm land in trees, 394½ potatoes, 2,123 grass and clover, 38 corn, 31 barley, 1,165 oats, 1,368 wheat.

OREGON.

A thousand head of sheep started from Polk county for Eastern Oregon last Monday.

The erection of the new quartz mill at the Virtue mine, Baker City, is progressing rapidly.

"The W. R. T. Co's wharf at Salem is about completed, and will be very convenient to shippers.

There is fear in Washington county that the late heavy rains will cause the forward wheat to fall down and lodge badly. We presume the same is true of other sections.

Our Hillsboro correspondent is informed that a special term of Court will be held at that place, beginning July 10th, to try the case of the State of Oregon vs Courtney W. Meek.

Mr. M. Sawyer, near Wheatland, Yamhill county, was thrown from his wagon a few days ago, and his team running away, the wagon passed over his body. His arm was broken and one of his eyes severely injured.

The editor of the Baker City Democrat says: "We can stand in our office door and count some ten or twelve buildings in the course of erection in our city." We can stand in the door of our office and count twelve thousand.

A paper up the country puts up base ball about right, when it calls it "a great and time consuming nuisance, taking the mind of the scholars from their studies, and should be as much discountenanced as prize fighting, or any other muscular acquirement over mind."

A Clatsop county dairyman writes to us to know what is to constitute the "best gallon of butter milk" for which the Washington county Agricultural Society propose to offer a premium of $5." We give it up. Our correspondent thinks the "poorest" buttermilk is the "best," because it shows that the churning has been well done.

A young couple ran away from their fond parents and sought to be married at Baker City, but the affair was postponed, as the girl was not 18 years old. Down here, in such cases, the fellow hires some rascal to perjure himself and make the necessary affidavit. More than one instance of this kind has happened in Oregon.

It is from the Jewish world that we learn the particulars of a very curious ceremony, called "The Burying of the Law," which lately took place in the Jewish Synagogue of Jerusalem. It happens every eight or ten years, and is accompanied by the following circumstances: There is in the "Talmud Torah" Synagogue a subterranean cave, wherein every old leaf torn out from any holy books, every old worn out Bible, Gemara, and phylactery is deposited by all the Jewish inhabitants of Jerusalem of every Minhag. After eight or ten years, when the cave is full, these old papers and books are brought out and made up into bales. This done, the Jews begin to assemble at a given time in the afternoon. A kosher, or faultless Sepher Torah, richly ornamented and jeweled, is brought by the Cacham Bashi, and carried by him, and the other Rabbis in turn, at the head of the procession; he is followed by the other Rabbis, next come the bales, about seventy or eighty in number, each carried by a Jew, and then the rest of the people. The procession slowly winds its way out of the Zion gate for some distance along the city wall, and then descends into the valley of Jehosaphat, where the burial ground is situated. Here is a very deep well, where the bales are finally thrown, amid the singing of the joyous crowd.

EASTERN DATES TO JUNE 16.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Difficulties on the Texas Frontiers.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Commissioners to inquire into the outrages on the Texas border arrived this morning and had an interview with Secretary Fish during the day. They deny reports that the Texans make raids into Mexico, and say there is nothing there to induce them to plunder their property. All that the neighbors and all the citizens care for is the protection of their property against invasion from Mexicans and Indians. After the Commissioners went up the Rio Grande to take testimony, Mexicans on the lower part of that river crossed and began their thieving operations for which they were pursued and chastised by C. L. McKenzie. The Secretary of the Texas legislature has instituted inquiries into Mexican and Indian raids on citizens of that State, while some of the most respectable residents of the Nueces valley went to Austin and gave stronger testimony than they had previously given before the Commission. The Commissioners represent the amount of damages, direct and consequential to those who have suffered by these raids, between [illegible] and [illegible]. Five hundred petitions, in the way of complaints, with specifications, were presented to the Commissioners, and were supported by sixteen hundred affidavits. Most petitioners are represented as men of fine education and of the most respectable characters. As to the Kickapoos, it is supposed, there are no more than 200 altogether. One of the old Chiefs, referring to the proposition of the United States to go on a reservation, said to the Commissioners: "We would have but a small patch of ground, and could not make raids on other reservations, which not only supplies us with provisions, but supplies us with money, and when we want to go to Texas, Mexican merchants and planters supply us with guns, ammunition and provisions, and we pay them with what we capture."

Colonel McKenzie's report of his attack recently on the Kickapoos and Lipan Indians has reached the War Department. General Sheridan in his indorsement of the report says: "I do not believe in any boundary between the United States and Mexico when we are defending the lives of our citizens, and protecting their property against merciless bandits, when the name of the modern robber or thief poorly applies as covering their acts. There can be no objection to the lawful forces of either nation in pursuing them for the purpose of capturing or ending their deeds of violence."

Relief of the Polaris.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Commander Green has been ordered to the command of a vessel which is to be dispatched for the discovery and relief of the Polaris, with Lieut.-Commander White as executive officer.

The Secretary is making the selection of a vessel suitable for Arctic navigation, and efforts are being made to start the expedition early in July. The Juanita is taking out her guns and is being provisioned for a voyage of inquiry, and may leave the last of this week.

It is stated that the Navy Department has purchased the British steamer Tigress for the Polaris search expedition. She is the well known sealing vessel that picked up and rescued a portion of the crew of the Polaris.

PERSONAL NOTES.

The monument to be erected over the grave of Fanny Fern will consist of an Italian marble pedestal on a granite base. The pedestal is to be surmounted by a Roman cross ornamented with fern leaves.

The joint expedition of Professor Baird, United States Fish Commissioner, and Professor Verrill, the naturalist of Yale, has had located for this season in Casco Bay, Maine, with headquarters on Peak's Island. The fish commission was originally established to investigate the causes of the decrease of the various kinds of edible fish along the coast, with a view of restoration, as the decrease is supposed to be dependent in a great measure upon the fish food. It has been found essential to the objects in view to thoroughly examine the feeding grounds by dredging operations. In this work the head of the commission has the co-operation of Professor Verrill, with a numerous corps of assistants from different institutions, who will conduct the scientific investigation. Professor Verrill, according to Professor Dana, is the leading authority in American marine zoology.

It is related of the aged mother of McCarty, the Richmond duelist who inflicted a mortal wound on Mordecai, and was himself perforated by a bullet from his opponent's pistol, that she was aware from the first of her son's intention to call Mordecai to account; that, on his suggestion to her as he lay sick from the beating received from Mordecai, that possibly his friends might refuse to bear his challenge to his opponent, she said, "Be of good cheer, my son; if they refuse, I'll carry it myself." As it was, Col. Tabb being sent for, readily consented to act. It is [illegible] this mother [illegible] far from the field when the combat took place. At any rate, when the perforated body of her son arrived at home late on the fatal Friday night, the anxious friends who conveyed him into the maternal presence found every convenience necessary to meet just such a contingency as had happened.

A MONTANA POSTOFFICE.—A special agent of the Postoffice Department is reported to have had an amusing experience while making his official visit of inspection at Iron Rod. Going into the Postoffice, he found the room divided into three sections, first a saloon, next the Postoffice, and the last a faro bank. The mail bag was brought in. A rough looking customer opened it and emptied the contents on the floor. The entire crowd got down on their hands and knees, and commenced overhauling the letters, among which were several registered, and selected such as they wanted. After they were through, the remaining letters were shoveled into a candle box and placed on the bar. The special agent, thinking the office needed a little regulating, asked the bar-tender, who had received and distributed the mail, if he was the Postmaster. He answered, "No." "Are you the Assistant Postmaster?" "No." "Where is the Postmaster?" "Out mining." "Where's the Assistant Postmaster?" "Gone to Hell's Canon, and, by thunder, Bill Jones has got to run the Postoffice this week; it's his turn." The government official then stated who he was, and demanded the keys of the office. The bar-tender coolly took the candle box from the bar, put it on the floor and gave it a kick, sending it out of the door, saying: "There's your Postoffice, and now git!" The agent says: "Knowing the customs of the country, I lost no time in following this advice, and got." That office was discontinued.

A JEALOUS HUSBAND CURED WITH LIQUORICE WATER.—There is a man in this city who is so affectionately fond of his wife that he is jealous if a man looks within forty-five degrees of the direction in which she may happen to be. The other day a gentleman spoke to her and he immediately threatened suicide. His wife was dispatched for a bottle of poison, which she had put up at the druggist's, consisting of a little water colored with liquorice and bottled with a glaring poison label outside. When he threatened to take some of it, and actually poured it into a wine glass, she screamed for help and ran into another room, where she could watch him through the keyhole, and saw him coolly open the window and throw it out. She then rushed back, apparently frantic with grief, and implored him not to do the rash deed. He merely pointed at the glass, and laying down on the floor, began to kick out his legs like a jumping-jack. She told him she was determined to share his fate, and swallowed the rest of the liquorice water, whereupon he became really frightened, called the neighbors, confessed that he only shammed, and said that if she only survived he never would trouble her again. Then she explained the ruse, and he was so mortified he tried to buy up the silence of the neighbors, but the story was too good to keep. He is thoroughly cured.

HOW FAIR CHINESE DIE FOR LOVE.—In his "Far Cathay," Mr. Medhurst states that one morning he received a card from a wealthy young lady informing him that her betrothed, having lapsed into an early grave, she had made up her mind to commit suicide on a certain day. To Mr. Medhurst's surprise, his official remonstrances were received with commonplace civilities, and "on the day named the woman did deliberately sacrifice her life in the presence of thousands. A stage was erected in the open fields, with a tented frame over it, from which was suspended a slip of scarlet crape; one end of this she adjusted around her neck. She then embraced a little boy, probably a little brother, presented by a person standing by, and, having let fall a vail over her face, she mounted a chair and resolutely jumped off it, her little clasped hands saluting the assemblage as her fast-failing form twirled round with the tightening cord."

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 18, 1873.

The Ring's Sunbeams.

No one can help admiring the ingenuity with which the Bulletin manages to extract sunbeams from that very cool cucumber, the municipal election of yesterday. Desirous of arguing itself and readers into the belief that the result of the contest is not wholly indicative of a strongly predominant sentiment in the community against the ring management of the affairs of the city, the Bulletin seeks an explanation of the result in another direction, and being entirely unconcerned upon the question whether its explanation is founded on fact or is purely fictitious, it proceeds to declare that the cause of the defeat of the ring was a combination of all the banks of the city, all the Democrats of the city and the water company to defeat the ring ticket. To have been beaten by so formidable a combination is not defeat, reasons the Bulletin; in fact proceeds that cheerful journal, to be so beaten can not be regarded otherwise than as a ring triumph. Then there is a sunbeam. Defeat at the hands of a foe of vastly superior strength, is not defeat but victory.

The logic by which this remarkable conclusion is reached from the given premises, is not entirely clear to the ordinary intellect. It is generally understood, especially in political contests, that when you are beaten by reason of your opponents being able to command votes enough to overwhelm you, your chances for future successes are rather slim, to say the least. That is exactly the sort of defeats that are supposed to be most disastrous to the party that suffers them.

But we are not under any great stress of necessity to quarrel with the mode of reasoning by which our cheerful neighbor arrives at a conclusion so apparently illogical, and so extremely comforting withal. For there is a fatal objection to his deductions, lying nearer the foundation of the matter, and that objection is, that his premises are wholly untrue. It is not true that the banks had anything whatever to do with the election. We presume the men employed in and about the banks went out to the polls and voted; at least, it is natural to suppose they would do so, and we therefore assume that they did, but it does not follow that the banks went, or any money from their vaults. It is plain that the Bulletin thinks that every man who has by industry, enterprise and economy, accumulated a competency, ought to be disfranchised unless he will vote the ring ticket. Those who agree to this peculiar view of the Bulletin, of course, will join that paper in denouncing such persons for showing themselves at the polls on [illegible].

Nor is it true that the Water Company united with the Citizens' ticket. There is, indeed, much ground for supposing there was an understanding between the Company and the Ring. One fact alone, which is susceptible of proof, would seem to settle that matter pretty well: when the tickets came to be counted, it was found that a very large majority, estimated as high as five-sixths of the votes cast for the purchase of the Water Works, were the bogus Republican or Ring ticket. This we get directly from persons who helped to count the votes; and does it not settle the question beyond a doubt?

And it is equally untrue that the Democratic ticket prevented the success of the Citizens' [illegible]. It was generally understood that the Democratic ticket was nominated simply and exclusively as a means of aiding the Ring ticket. It was fixed up by men who are known to be in perfect accord with the Ring, and who consult with the leaders of the Ring daily. It was carefully managed in order that the candidates on that ticket should not draw away votes from the Ring nominees; and many of the leading Democrats who were most active in fixing it up and launching it into the field, actually voted for the Ring ticket. We could mention the names of such. They openly talked it on the street all day yesterday, and said it was the first time they ever threw off on the Democratic ticket. Look at the actual returns, and see what they show. The number of votes for the Democratic candidates averaged about 80 in the First Ward. But Mr. Herman, Democratic nominee for Councilman from that Ward received 109 votes, running 29 ahead of his ticket. Does anybody suppose for a moment that Mr. Herman received any votes but those of Democrats? Of course not. Now suppose all the other Democratic candidates had received the same vote that Herman got, who would have suffered by it? Somebody would necessarily have received so many votes less. Would the loss have fallen on the Citizens' ticket, or on the bogus Republican or Ring ticket? The answer to this question settles the point who was benefited by the Democratic ticket. As Mr. Herman—Democratic candidate ran ahead of the average of his ticket, to about the same extent Mr. Quimby—Ring candidate—ran behind the average of his. Had the other Democratic candidates received the same number of votes as Mr. Herman, the other Ring candidates would have suffered as Mr. Quimby did. But the Democrats fell short, and the vote they lacked went to swell the count for the Ring candidates. This is the logic of figures a logic that never lies,—and it proves that a large number of votes which the Democratic candidates might have expected to receive, voted the Ring ticket, and left only such as could not be persuaded to vote for the Ring, to vote the Democratic ticket, and thus diminish the plurality the Citizens' ticket would have received, had there been no Democratic ticket in the field. It was patent all day that the Citizens' ticket had all the possible combinations, besides hundreds of fraudulent votes, to contend against. Its triumph, under such circumstances, is astonishing.

A few days since we chronicled the letter of ex-Governor Wise, in which he declined to accept a candidacy for the gubernatorial office of Virginia at the hands of the Republican party. Now it would seem as though the Governor has a mild hankering for the office after all. After his refusal, it required considerable tact to develop that lingering wish without giving offense. As the Governor is not a man of diplomacy, he imitated Douglas Jerrold's "man of cheek,"—made audacity serve for lack of diplomacy. Accordingly, we read that he has written a four-column letter in which he says that he will not run if the two parties make nominations, but will run independently if either party shall decline to make a nomination. Astonishing prudence! A wise gentleman, is Governor Wise.

Jefferson Davis is engaged in writing a history of the rebellion. It threatens to be a rehearsal of personal grievances, not a narrative of facts. One long chapter of learned protest against his misfortunes has for its subject, "The Infinite Folly of Feminine Garments."

A Valuable Endorsement.

The N. Y. Times, discusses the new situation in the Modoc business—that one brought about by the capture of Jack and his most murderous braves, with a sagacity infinitely superior to the politic utterance of the Eastern press generally. For instance, of the message of Governor Grover to the Interior Department demanding the custody of such Indians as may stand indicted in our State courts, the Times says:

There is no good reason for refusing the request of Gov. Grover, of Oregon, that such of the Modoc prisoners as have been indicted for murder in the State Courts be delivered to the State authorities. To recognize these savages as belligerents is to dignify assassins and to provoke fresh outbreaks of Indian treachery and ferocity. If Capt. Jack escape the punishment he has done so much to deserve, every settler on this frontier is exposed to increased danger, and a wrong is done to the Indians themselves, as they will be encouraged to commit acts for which in the end they must suffer. The Government is said to be deliberating upon this question, and we hope a conclusion will be reached that will have the effect of restraining the Indians in the future from such deeds as the murder of Gen. Canby. It may not be amiss to recall the results which followed the hanging of thirty-eight Sioux savages, who were engaged in the Minnesota massacre eleven years ago. The interests of public justice demand that the lesson shall be so far repeated that Capt. Jack shall be at least placed on trial for his crimes. When arraigned at the bar of a civil court the glamor of romance will fall from him, so that even the Indians will see the overtaken felon instead of the baffled and captured warrior. If nothing more should follow, this spectacle of itself would do more to secure peace in the future than anything which could be done by the military power of the Government.

Deputy Blanc has come on the turbulent stage of Spanish politics. We know one M. Blanc, he is (or was, before the last plebiscitum,) in the French Assembly—a pert, courageous little chap of infinite strategic resource. The difference between the Monsieur and the Señor Deputy is not so great, after all. From the tribune in the Cortes, the other day, Deputy Blanc apostrophized his dissenting colleagues on the state of the country, and moved "that after the proclamation of the Republic, the members of the Cortes place themselves at the head of the volunteers of their respective provinces, and unite in one grand effort to exterminate or drive from the country the Carlists." We may imagine with what degree of favor the proposition was received. To the average legislator, peaceful harangue and the wordy battle is infinitely preferable to the recoil of a needle-gun. Especially so in European States to those with whom legislation is a trade.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says there is considerable discussion at Washington City in regard to the effect that the discovery of our Senator's going under an assumed name will have upon his election. Some say it will invalidate the election and vacate his seat, while others insist that the question is simply one of identity, and that since there is no doubt what person was intended to be elected it is unimportant as a legal proposition whether he was known by his true name or not. The latter view is in our view the correct one so far as the question of law is concerned. It was not the name that was elected Senator, but the man; and so long as there is no doubt about the right man being in his seat, we should be at loss to find a basis upon which to ground the position that his election was invalid, because he was elected under a false name.

The Mongolian fares sadly in Cuba, so sadly that the leading journals of Havana having repeatedly called the attention of the Colonization Society (which took them thither) to the frequent outrages, now demands the enforcement of the Coolies' legal rights by legal process, if it be necessary. The Tribune attacks the Society, and regrets that it fails to secure humane treatment for the Chinese laborers, and better prospects for them when their contracts expire. It says the cruelty with which they are treated causes them to resort to suicide, murder or flight. It denounces the compulsory recontract system, and charges that the present rules were concocted by men who, finding that they could not continue their illicit traffic in human flesh, attempt to cheat the law by changing the name of the traffic.

General Garfield has prepared a lecture on "the relations of corporations to the future politics of this country." He will address the farmers' clubs throughout the West during the coming summer. It has occurred to us that it would be more entertaining and profitable, if it might be just as agreeable to Mr. Garfield, to tell something about the relations of corporations to the present politics of the country. "Credit Mobilier," Cong. Globe, vol. IX, p. 249, would make a good text.

Chicago had a jubilee last week. Other cities have had jubilees, but Chicago was the first city to sanctify the strongly utilitarian rafters of a railway depot to the sweet voices of a gigantic chorus. Calliope has triumphed over Vanderbilt, and Chicago has distanced her staid old competitor, Boston, quite as much in this matter of noisome festival as in the other of divorce.

We are constrained to believe that Watterson understands the theory and practice of the successful newspaper publisher. He says: "Mr. Prince, of Indiana, requests us to send him the Courier-Journal one year, promising to forward the money at the end of that time. 'Put not your trust in Princes.' Hence the cash principle, which is inflexible."

The question of a paper currency disturbs the counsels of the Cortes at Madrid. It is very generally opposed by Deputies from the farming communities, and so bitterly is the contest waged that the Government has concluded to submit the question to the new Ministry which has just been formed, as has been said, directly by the people.

There is very little of cobweb rhetoric about the speech of the farmers of Carroll county, Illinois. In convention, the other day, they resolved that "the increase of Congressional salaries in these hard times is an infernal outrage upon the working people of the country." That is the plain truth in rustic garb.

A Washington dispatch says that in view of the September payment of sixteen millions in gold by the British Government, on account of the Geneva award, our Syndicate in London has advised Secretary Fish to call in twenty millions of bonds, lest our transactions in the London market should suffer from the sudden withdrawal of the large sum named.

The latest returns from the election for Judge of the Supreme Court in the Fifth Judicial District in Illinois, show the election of Craig (Farmers' candidate) by a majority of at least 2,000. We had heretofore announced his defeat.

ACROSS THE GREAT NORTHWEST.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

LESLIE, Mich., June 4th, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The sweltering heat, peculiar to all localities on this side of the Rocky Mountains in June, has produced in me a stupor decidedly unfavorable to newspaper correspondence. I recollect that it will be a month to-morrow since I left Portland, and this brings to mind my promise to write once a month. My journey hitherward across the Continent seems like a dream. In memory, I trace the dim outlines of the broad Columbia, swollen by the melting snows of the far off mountains, hastening on its course through a vast monotonous grass covered plain below its junction with Snake river, till at the Dalles it quickens its pace, and with music and dancing, goes skipping, rushing and roaring down its chasm channel cut through mountain barriers, on either side of which were grass covered mountains, perpendicular cliffs of frowning basalt buried as to their tops in snow or wreathed by clouds: silvery streams pouring over overhanging precipices and dissolving in vapory mist long before reaching the little crystal lakes they feed below—all passing in such quick succession before the eye of the traveler, that at this distant view, one in trying to trace the outlines of this beauty, finds them all so blended on the tablet of his memory, that he is only able to make out, written in letters of light—"Glorious Oregon!" The cool breezes of the Columbia that fanned my locks as I sat on the prow of the steamer, seem in imagination to blow on me still, as I essay to write in this mammoth Mississippi Valley sweat house.

At the Dalles I accepted an invitation from Rev. Thomas Condon to examine his COLLECTION OF OREGON FOSSILS.

Many in Oregon have had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Condon's most excellent Zoological lectures on "Ancient Oregon," but no one who has not visited him and examined his wagon loads of specimens, has any real idea of the indefatigable character of his researches, or of the lavish hand with which Nature has bidden away under the mountains, the records of her mighty handiwork, stretching through at least four epochs of myriads of ages each, reaching down from the time that this little mud ball was cooled off enough to develop or support the fauna and flora that gave it its first attraction, down to the uprising of the biped species. With what intense interest must the man of letters delve into this great library under ground to trace in "God's word" too deeply buried for kings to destroy or priests to mistranslate, misinterpret, and otherwise tamper with the history of the ages, back to the very dawn of the eocene tertiary? Let me caution your readers, however, not to be too credulous in studying this book, which, like the Mormon bible, has been "dug up" by friend Condon and others, if not by Jo Smith. They might be led into the "dangerous belief" that the hippopotamus, the elephant, entelodon, lion, as well as the palm tree and other tropical animals and plants, flourished in Oregon more than a million of years ago, whereas I read in a religious paper before me, printed in Chicago, and devoted to "Second Advent" principles, that this whole country had a tropical climate before the fall of Adam, about six thousand years ago. The editor assures us that Christ is about to return to reign in person, and that immediately after his advent the whole world will become warm again. Then the Esquimaux will plant large orange orchards, the Laplanders will live on raisins mostly, while the Michiganders will probably be able to produce a pretty good crop of sweet potatoes. This is encouraging to people over here just now, as the "hard winter" has left them in a happy state of mind to receive theological dogmas that have any warmth connected with them; hence I find a goodly number of that faith hereabouts, the women having sealed their faith in the doctrine, by donning breeches.

Mr. Condon has no suitable building in which to keep his cabinet, and his salary of $1,000 a year is not half what he needs to enable him to prosecute his researches. It is a beggarly pittance, doled out by the Legislature, and the State will never do itself justice till it at least doubles his present pay.

At Baker City I examined an interesting cabinet of specimens, collected by Mr. Virtue—consisting mostly of minerals. I there saw the jaw of what passes for a mastodon, taken out of a gold mine some sixty feet under ground. There for long ages the bones of this animal had reposed, in a bed of sparkling quartz and glittering gold. What monarch could desire a more splendid burial? I incline to think this is the jaw bone of the animal Tom Moore sings of:

> "The bone that sinks a home,
> Where wealth and grandeur shines,
> I like the gloomy gap
> That dwells in dark gold mines."

The journey from Umatilla to Kelton was made in nine days by stage. Rather slow time for this fast age, but the horses along the whole route were but just recovering from the epizootic—a complaint, by the way, which the people here in Michigan enjoyed in common with the horses. I do not think one horse in a thousand has been lost by this disease. At Rock Creek Station Col. Taggart and myself stopped over to visit the

GREAT SHOSHONE FALLS.

We chartered two cayuses which soon galloped over the nine mile course across the sage plains and brought us to the upper falls. Here half of Snake river slides down a precipitous, jagged plain of basalt, while the other half of the river, cut off from the eastern half by an island at the head of the falls, dashes down a perpendicular ledge, falling some eighty or a hundred feet into the chasm below. This is a fine waterfall, but eclipsed in grandeur by the great falls three miles below, where our cayuses soon landed us. This great fall is estimated to be from 180 to 210 feet. The roar can be heard several miles and the cloud of spray that hovers over it serves as a guide to travelers a long ways off. The fall is in fact composed of two falls, the upper one having much the appearance as to hight of the falls at Oregon City. A few rods below the whole river takes its last perpendicular plunge, apparently falling about three times as far as it does at the fall above. This lower fall is horse shoe shaped, and though the grandest of the kind I ever saw, Niagara in the far distance danced before me in imagination, and roared out in thunder tones its demands for homage as monarch of the world of dashing, roaring waters. I couldn't get up much enthusiasm over the waterfall or the beautiful rain bow that stood as a "promise" that I shouldn't be drowned if I wasn't careless enough to tumble in—or, if I was "born to be hung." But I did wonder, and wonder, how a salmon could run up a sheet of water falling perpendicularly, nearly 200 feet. The "natural man" would as soon have believed he could climb a lightning rod, or that Jonah swallowed the whale, instead of having been made an undigested meal of himself. But the fact is, he (the salmon, I mean, not Jonah) does jump the great Shoshone Falls. The proof is found in the myriads of these fish above the falls. This fact has somewhat washed off the jagged protuberances of my inclination to be a little skeptical about matters that seemed unreasonable, and to the subsequent pious train of thought I imperceptibly slid into, is owing perhaps in a great measure to my present disposition to believe almost any "fish story." Near these falls a lot of Chinamen were once engaged in digging gold, and the remnants of their rude shanties, with here and there a few rags and a baker's oven in ruins, is all that is left of their presence on Snake. The great Shoshone Falls, being off the line of travel, are seldom seen by the eye of the tourist, or resorted to by "learned men," or curiosity hunters. Our landlady at Rock Creek, however, assured us that a

MAN OF SCIENCE FROM OREGON

Had lately visited these falls in quest of fossils, geological specimens, botanical curiosities, and whatever else, added to a bottle of water taken from the river, and would render North America famous at the next World's Fair. She described this literary genius as having a fine squeaking voice; as carrying a pamphlet on "Oregon war claims" in his hat having the author's likeness on the outside and inside of the cover, and claiming to be a "leading editor in Oregon." She said he returned from the falls highly elated with his success, having gathered what he called "two rare specimens," but which she assured me were, in plain English, the one a dried buffalo chip and the other a brick bat—whatever he might call them in Latin. I cannot imagine who this could have been. Could it have been the great Professor Agassiz?

I stepped off the cars at Brigham Station, Utah, this being the nearest point to the Soda Springs on Bear river, Idaho, variously estimated to be distant from Brigham some 80 or 100 miles. Here I heard discouraging accounts concerning the medical virtues of these springs and the accommodations for visitors. The cold rains, mixed with snow, that began to fall on us in the Goose Creek mountain country, still continued in this locality. I went five miles on my journey to Brigham City, a Mormon village of about 1,000. The horrible weather, with Mormon assurance that I was a month too soon to expect good weather in the Bear river mountains, induced me to turn my course towards the Colorado Springs, some 70 miles from Denver. My stay among the Mormons gave me a chance to question many of the "Latter Day Saint" females as to

MORMON WOMEN'S VIEWS OF POLYGAMY.

I find a much greater dissatisfaction than I found five years ago. The women almost universally, especially the old wives, wear those woe begone, gloomy countenances that make a little hell in every house where they are seen. I saw in one house two or three old wives, perhaps forty-five or forty eight years old, bending over wash-tubs, scouring tin, mopping floors, and slinging pots and kettles around, as only old, experienced matrons can. The young wife, apparently a fresh addition to the harem, sat in the parlor, tastily though cheaply clad, and busying herself in hemming a white apron. Ye gods! Didn't I eye those old mothers in Israel, as they occasionally passed through the parlor and glanced at this white-aproned vestal? Didn't I see written in unmistakable characters of livid blackness on their sorrowful faces what they thought of this intruder who had stolen the heart and affections of their old "Latter Day Saint" (?) lord, who was trying to "serve God" by getting half a dozen women to serve him?

But then this is their religion. Their religion teaches them (so a shoemaker in Brigham City told me) that God had revealed to Brigham Young the startling fact that polygamy was necessary to enable the women to attain to a "Superior exaltation in Heaven." Women must degrade themselves here to be exalted hereafter. Women being naturally religious, and anxious to "please God," at first set out with all the zeal of Bunyan's Pilgrim to seek after the "Superior exaltation." But the march of improvement, that is rapidly melting down old theological icebergs, and cooling off some very hot places, has also left an occasional footprint in Utah. Women here are beginning to be "skeptical"—to doubt whether it really is the will of God that she suffer hell here to win heaven hereafter. The fact is, that Mormonism, like many other isms, is slowly weakening. They are already divided into several sects, are divided on polygamy, and have feuds in the congregation, and tear-shedding, scolding and hair pulling in the household. I left Utah with my faith in polygamy, as the philosopher's stone, somewhat shaken, and I sent word to Brigham that he needn't make any preparation to "Seal" me till he heard from me again.

In reaching Cheyenne, the cold and stormy weather continued. The mountains were white with snow all around, and vegetation had hardly started. Here I heard of the wonderful springs in Michigan, and concluded to try them. I came near meeting with

AN ACCIDENT IN OMAHA,

But didn't. It was dark when the train reached this, the meanest and most uninviting city between the two oceans. The ten human beings that got inside of that omnibus, which, for six bits in advance was to take us to the hotel and return us to the cars in the morning, made too heavy a load for Omaha roads. The starboard fore wheel directly over which I sat on the inside, dove nearly out of sight in a muddy hollow we had to pass. This capsized the craft, throwing me on my back, where I was held fast by any amount of baggage which hagged my feet, and a large fleshy woman who was thrown down upon me from her seat opposite. The horses took fright, wheeled square to the left, broke the tongue of the four-wheeled fabric, and tried to run away. The men inside, instead of jumping out at the back door, as they should have done, sat stupidly motionless, (or stood, I couldn't see which,) the woman screamed, the driver yelled to somebody to "catch hold of them horses—whoa! whoa!" the horses thumped the bus with their heels, which responded like a huge bass drum, or the Trojan horse to the halbert of Laocoon; while all this time, the fat girl I wished I'de "left behind me," was pressing the breath out of me with the weight of her charms, and gently whispering in my ear all sorts of apologies for being there. The danger of being smothered under crinoline or of being dragged to death by crazy, frightened horses, forcibly presented itself, and I recollect the words of one of the Modoc Peace Commissioners, who, on being warned by Riddle's squaw that Jack would kill him, replied: "I don't believe God has brought me here with such an end in view." This pious idea might have consoled me if I hadn't just then called to mind the real "end" that God permitted that peace seeker to come to. To avoid such an end myself, I pointed to the rear hole in the omnibus, and used some pretty strong language, which soon caused a general emptying of the inside and released me from the affectionate embraces of my lady love, who, as she informed me, weighed a hundred, eighty-two and a half pounds.

But this is long enough for one letter. To-morrow I will try to write again, and post you about these wonderful Michigan springs—two artesian wells.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 18, 1873.

CITY.

CONTRACT AWARDED.—The contract for the construction of a new boat for the Willamette River Transportation Company, was awarded yesterday. Mr Steffen is the contractor The new boat is to be 225 feet long 25 feet beam and 5 feet hold. The boiler, engines and machinery which were used on the steamer Enterprise that was sunk some months ago off the mouth of the [illegible] river, will be overhauled and used in [illegible]. This machinery, notwithstanding [illegible] used for some years, will be almost as good as new. The contract calls for the completion of the new boat within 90 days.

AN INCIDENT.—Last Monday, while the contest was going on at the polls in the Second Ward, [illegible] went up to a third and the three engaged [illegible] close consultation for a few minutes, [illegible] money was passed between them [illegible] change, they dropped a $2 50 gold [illegible] A bystander observed it, and picking it [illegible] to return it, but the gentlemen, all [illegible] ownership, saying they "hadn't any money" How modest, and why not?

SAVE TROUBLE.—A bellicose individual was [illegible] last evening near the corner of Washington and First streets for disorderly conduct. He [illegible] resistance to the officer who, finding [illegible] equal to the task, was compelled to [illegible] for assistance. Several other policemen [illegible] to the signal and arrived hastily at the [illegible] action and lent assistance. After a [illegible] and lively skirmish, the bellicose individual was overpowered and compelled to go to jail.

[illegible] BACK.—A short time prior to the [illegible] leaving Astoria yesterday morning, the steamer Oriflamme started out to sea. The [illegible], however, was so rough and the atmosphere so hazy, that the attempt was abandoned and the steamer returned to the wharf just as [illegible] started up the river. Ere this it is probable that the Oriflamme has succeeded in [illegible] over the bar.

[illegible].—The Committee on Orator and [illegible] Declaration of Independence, have [illegible] an invitation to His Excellency, Gov. [illegible] deliver the oration in this city at the [illegible]. Yesterday a letter was received [illegible] his acceptance. The committee have not selected the Reader yet for that [illegible].

[illegible] SALE.—The box office at the [illegible] will be open on Thursday and Saturday [illegible] from 1 to 4 o'clock, when reserved [illegible] at 25 cents each. Tickets can be had at the stores of J. K. Gill & Co , M. Gray, [illegible] & Co., S. J. McCormick, C. C. [illegible] W. K. Badger.

[illegible] bark Free Trade was met [illegible] just above Tongue Point bound down [illegible] the tug [illegible]. This bark has on [illegible] of bolts, intended for the San Francisco market. The vessel was to have [illegible], provided the state of [illegible].

[illegible]. The four persons who [illegible] on Monday under suspicion of being [illegible] in the [illegible] at the Portland Saw Mill on [illegible], are still in jail. Yesterday [illegible], but by consent of [illegible] this morning.

CANVASSED.—In [illegible] with law, the official [illegible] of the city was [illegible] yesterday afternoon [illegible] W. S. Caldwell, Auditor and Clerk, W. H. Harris, [illegible] Clerk, and H. W. Davis, a Justice of the Peace, examined the poll books as required by law.

[illegible] IN.—[illegible] was observed yesterday [illegible] the bar, headed in, just as the [illegible] Thompson was leaving her wharf. At [illegible] it could not be determined whether the [illegible] San Francisco, or the [illegible] from [illegible]

[illegible] VOTERS. [illegible] were arrested [illegible] for [illegible], or attempting to cast illegal [illegible] up yesterday morning [illegible] Court. In [illegible] the defendant [illegible] the charge before the grand jury [illegible].

[illegible]. A grand rehearsal will be held [illegible] at the new Trinity church for the [illegible] of the series which are soon to be [illegible] for the benefit of the church. The [illegible] concerts will be given in about two [illegible].

[illegible].—The ship Puritan is still lying [illegible] at Astoria. She has completed her [illegible] lumber and flour for Hongkong and now [illegible] a favorable opportunity of crossing the bar.

[illegible].—A meeting was held by the creditors of the Herald Printing Company on Monday, [illegible] Mr. Joseph Bachman was elected assignee.

[illegible].—This article is arriving in large quantities from up the Columbia. Last evening the [illegible] boat brought down 150 rolls of this year's [illegible].

ESTHER, THE BEAUTIFUL QUEEN.

For several weeks past, this beautiful Cantata has been in rehearsal under the leadership of Prof. J. B McGibeny. Last evening we witnessed the first rendition by amateur vocalists of this city, accompanied by an orchestra of amateur and professional instrumentalists A goodly audience was in attendance, although the inclement weather must have kept away many who would have wished to be present And then it was well known that the concert would be twice repeated. Notwithstanding this, there was a paying audience In this instance we almost fear to attempt a lengthened critique of the performance We feel like taking refuge behind the reporter's trite commonplace—"where all did so well," etc But the leading characters in the Cantata were sustained throughout with most excellent effects. Mrs McGibeny in the title role excelled all her former efforts. In the pathetic protest to the adjuration of Mordecai, "Go thou unto the King," and again in her passionate denunciation of Haman, she developed dramatic powers of no inferior degree Mrs McGibeny is favorably known to Portland audiences, but she gained a higher position last night. "Mordecai" is a grand character,—the splendid embodiment of that massive integrity and simple faith which formed the characteristic of the symmetrical Jewish character. It was faithfully impersonated by Mr W. Carey Johnson This gentleman has a very clear tenor of good compass and moderate strength In the devotional passage, "To thee, O Lord," as well as in the plaintive lament, "Woe is me!" he sang with superb effect Mr. M. O Lowndsdale as "Haman" won golden opinions. The "Song of Joy," the largo movement, "Behold this Mordecai," and the recitative, "There is a certain people," were executed with fidelity and taste And then, as the courtier baffled and beaten and, at the last, despised of his monarch, he gained merited distinction "Ahasuerus" (Mr. S. J McCormick) was quite successful "Zerish," (Miss Ball,) displayed very good taste in the solo "Haste to the Banquet hall," and acquitted herself throughout to the satisfaction of her many admirers. "First Maid of Honor" to the Queen, (Mrs. M. O Lowndsdale,) is possessed of the sweetest voice among all the soloists. The delicate little morceau, "Therefore will we never fear," won a gentle murmur of applause which, in an audience like that of last evening, is far more expressive than the noisy utterances of art. And again, in "Do I Wake," the deep pathos of her voice was most admirably shown This lady shows careful vocal training and flexibility of voice, but above all a charming taste, which is saying very much. "Mordecai's Sister," (Mrs. Denlinger,) in "When the blast of the Terrible One," "Hegai," (Mr Gordon) in "For He bringeth down," and the "High Priest" (Mr. A. H. Morgan) in "Thou Wilt Keep him," "Prophet" (Mr. Morse) in "Lo, O'er the wicked," Miss Meiggs, in "Why should this Hebrew?"—all did well. The chorus was effective, and the execution throughout reflected great credit on their Conductor, Prof. McGibeny

We cannot omit special mention of the superb orchestra, which rendered good service throughout. The parts, instrumental and vocal, were well balanced, the costumes were for the most appropriate, and in several instances handsome, and the whole performance passed without a single occurrence to mar its general success, if we except an inconsiderable faux pas at the first which created a little merriment. There was a little confusion in the allegro passages, but this was incidental, of course, to the first performance.

We have arrived at that which is inexplicable—for who can describe the magician's art? Well, the well known Bosco performed a miracle of the Assyrian court, and it was done with his usual dexterity. We can, with confidence, recommend the Cantata to the public.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A. B. Richardson will dispose at auction this morning of some very choice and desirable real estate This property is situated at the corner of Sixth and Washington streets, and is among the most valuable property of the city.

Charley Dexter, whose pleasant face is so well known, and whose many genial and social qualities are so generally recognized, took the steamer yesterday morning for Astoria. He will proceed to the Sea Side House at Clatsop and complete all necessary arrangements to open that favorite and popular place of resort. The Sea Side House has been furnished throughout on the most commodious scale, and offers superior facilities for comfort and pleasure. Mr. Dexter proposes to have everything in readiness for the reception of guests by the 20th inst. Those who visit the "sounding sea" during the summer and fall months, should not fail to give Charley a call. He knows how to keep a hotel, and will spare no pains to render all surroundings pleasant and agreeable.

We refer our readers to the advertisement in another column of the Marsh Truss Co., of San Francisco, an institution that has gained considerable reputation by their many remarkable cures of RUPTURE. This Co. is a branch of the celebrated House of Marsh & Co., New York, which has a reputation of nearly forty years and are endorsed by the Medical Faculty wherever they have established branches. We commend this Company to our Ruptured friends, feeling assured they will receive the only legitimate cure for Hernia (Rupture) This Company does not use any worthless washes called "curative compounds" that has never cured Rupture, and are calculated to deceive Their office is at 513 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

FESTIVALS

The ladies of the First Unitarian Church of the city will give a strawberry festival and apron fair at the chapel, corner of Seventh and Yamhill streets, this evening.

The telegraphic report of the death of the notorious Vic. Woodhull proves to be false A New York special of the 6th inst., says. "Victoria C. Woodhull fell to the floor at her residence, No. 6 East Thirty-fourth street, about nine o'clock this evening. Blood flowed copiously from her nose and mouth, and when raised by her friends she was found to be unconscious. She was borne to her bed and two physicians hastily summoned On their arrival they carefully examined her pulse and heart, but were unable to find any traces of life. Her friends could not give up hope, however, and urged the physicians to use their utmost endeavors to restore her. Their efforts were partially successful and they brought back feeble symptoms of animation. It is not expected that Mrs. Woodhull can live through the night. The causes of this sudden prostration are her troubles in connection with her recent law suits. Her imprisonment, the excessive bail demanded, and the belief that she had no show in the courts, all have combined to bring on this fatal attack."

Eugenie didn't do the crazy thing with which she was debited a few weeks ago, she did not appeal to France to recognize the little Louis. THE ALTITUDE IN WHICH MEN CAN LIVE.—There has been a great deal of discussion as to the altitude at which human beings can exist, and Mr. Glaisher himself can tell us as much about it as anybody. In July, 1862, he and Mr. Coxwell ascended in a balloon to the enormous elevation of 37,000 feet. "Previous to the start, Mr. Glaisher's pulse stood at seventy-six beats a minute, Coxwell's at seventy-four. At 17,000 feet, the pulse of the former was at eighty-four; that of the latter, at one hundred. At 19,000 feet, Glaisher's hands and lips were quite blue, but not his face. At 21,000 feet, he heard his heart beating, and his breathing became oppressed, at 29,000 feet, he became senseless," notwithstanding which the aeronaut, in the interest of science, went up another 8,000 feet, till he could no longer use his hands, and had to pull the strings of the valve with his teeth. Aerostats, who have to make no exertions, have, of course, a great advantage over members of the Alpine Club, and those who trust their legs, even at 13,000 feet these climbers feel very uncomfortable, more so in the Alps, it seems, than elsewhere At the monastery of St. Bernard, 8,117 feet high, the monks become asthmatic, and are compelled frequently to descend into the valley of the Rhone for—anything but "a breath of fresh air," and at the end of ten years' service, are obliged to give up their high living and come down to the usual level At the same time, in South America, there are towns (such as Potosi placed as high as the top of Mont Blanc, the inhabitants of which feel no inconvenience The highest inhabited spot in the world is, however, the Buddhist cloister of Hanle, in Thibet, where twenty-one priests live at an altitude of 16 500 feet. The brothers Schlagintweit, when they explored the glaciers of the Ibi-Gamin in the same country, encamped at 21,000 feet, the highest altitude at which a European ever passed the night Even at the top of Mont Blanc, Professor Tyndall's guides found it very unpleasant to do this, though the Professor himself did not confess to feeling so bad as they. The highest mountain in the world is Mount Everest (Himalaya), 29,003 feet, and the condor has been seen "winging the blue air" 500 feet higher. The air, by the by, is not "blue," or else, as De Saussure pointed out, "the distant mountains, which are covered with snow, would appear blue also," its apparent color being due to the reflection of light. What light can do, and does, is marvelous, and not the least is its power of attraction to humanity —Chambers' Journal.

DESTRUCTION OF THE TERRAPIN TOWER.—The Niagara Falls Gazette thus notices the destruction of "Terrapin Tower," long one of the most conspicuous objects around the Falls

"During the past fifty years millions of people, from every inhabitable part of the globe, have seen the round, weather beaten tower, built upon the narrow ledge of rocks upon the extreme brink of the Horseshoe Fall, and have enjoyed from its summit the magnificent view which it afforded of the tumultuous rapids above and the mighty rush of waters below They will learn with sincere regret that the venerable mass of masonry has been destroyed The tower was built in 1823, by Judge Porter, was 45 feet in height and 12 feet in diameter at its base The masonry was massive, and its hardness and durability many have thought to have been abundantly demonstrated But, standing in such an extremely exposed position subject at all times to the action of the spray and the fierce beating winds, and in the winter months ice bound and frost-bitten, the stones and wood have been gradually yielding to the elements, and the structure was pronounced unsafe last Fall, and has been closed to the public ever since Last week preparations were made to remove the concern, in order to make room for a new iron tower Large fissures were found to have opened in the masonry, and the mass at the center of the pile was found to be only a shell, the core having almost disappeared from age and rot The first attempt to blow up the tower was made Saturday noon but proved abortive—the twenty five pounds of powder [illegible] in the base of the structure only serving to demolish a portion of the south western side The ruins were subsequently [illegible] and the work of demolition completed on Monday

A Reminiscence of Canby.

A correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal writes

We had the pleasure of meeting Gen. Sherman on the train, and, as the General is one of the most agreeable of talkers, the ride to Chillicothe, where we stopped to visit friends, seemed all too short The General was returning to Washington from the funeral of Gen Canby, and could tell me much about that noble woman, Mrs Canby, and how bravely she is bearing up under her great affliction General Sherman remained one day longer in Indianapolis that he might pay his respects to the widow She could not see him the first day, but when she did accord the interview she was composed, but her friends fear that the shot that killed her husband is doing its murderous work upon her Mrs Canby is in destitute circumstances, for she and her husband found so many objects of charity that their income went in this way They were plain and simple in their wants A noble charity of theirs came under my observation in the summer of 1863, soon after I reached Washington

A young lady who had left her home in the State of New York to become a clerk in the office of Internal Revenue was taken ill with typhoid fever She was boarding in the same house with General and Mrs Canby Sickness in a boarding-house is always forlorn and this young lady had small means (fifty dollars a month was then the pay) and no friends upon whom she had any claim. Mrs Canby constituted herself nurse, and for weeks was at her bedside night and day. At that time Gen. Canby was in command of this Department, and, as he expected to remain, he took a furnished house and went to house keeping, and they had the young lady removed to their house In about a week there were riots in New York, and General Canby was ordered there. In a day his wife was ready to accompany him, but they hired a competent nurse, and would not allow the house to be re-rented until the young lady was well and able to travel back to her home. The young lady, who was the daughter of an Episcopal clergyman, soon after married, and I have no doubt that her husband feels that he is indebted to Mrs Canby for his wife.

Mrs. Canby will reside with her brother, Major Hawkins, in Detroit, where he is stationed at present

PRINCE BISMARCK ON ULTRAMONTANISM.—In the sitting of the German Parliament on May 17, the debate on the retrospect of the year's administration in Alsace-Lorraine, as presented by the Federal Council, was continued, Herr Windthorst and other Ultramontane members condemned the Chancellor of the Empire for expelling the brothers and sisters of religious orders engaged in the schools, as well as other persons belonging to Alsace-Lorraine. Prince Bismarck replied that it was absolutely necessary to remove elements directly injurious to the community, especially such as existed among the brothers and sisters above alluded to. There were, however, upward of 200 school sisters and about 100 school brothers still engaged in the instruction of the young, and to whom no objection had been raised. It was incorrect to say that England and Russia sympathized with the Ultramontanes. According to authentic information, even England recognized that Ultramontane efforts to unsettle matters rendered constitutional government in Ireland impossible. As regards the sentiments of the Russian Government toward the Ultramontanes, Prince Bismarck believed himself to be better informed than members of that House who were opponents of the Government of the Czar. The whole of civilized Europe agreed with the views entertained by him (Prince Bismarck) respecting the hostility to the Government which characterized the conduct of the Ultramontane party. He confidently left everything to the judgment of history. The House declared itself satisfied with the administrative review laid before it.

COLEMANS EUCALYPTUS

Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medicinal qualities of the Eucalyptus, which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medicinal utility having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS BLADDER and URINARY CANAL and SEMINAL WEAKNESS It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings and cures them by its alterative, healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHŒA, etc

This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco, in 1871 and 1872 where he had unusual facilities for testing the various method of preparing the remedy and its uses It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised result and hundred of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office 406 Kearney street, San Francisco

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful, yet harmless febrifuge, and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys, and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies for those diseases are entirely avoided

The Reapers of Landisfarne.

A SAXON LEGEND.

In his lonely cell St. Cuthbert
Sat doubting and sore dismayed,
For the Northumbrian people,
For whom he had wrought and prayed,
(Given from their warlike pastimes,
Their plunder and their raid)

Sat [illegible] all peaceful [illegible],
And [illegible] with supplication,
"What we will have [illegible] or victual
By the [illegible] [illegible],
Forswearing the free, bold fray,
[illegible] after the servile plow?"

"By the word of my mouth I have taught them
Through year and through year," he said,
"And still in their untamed rudeness
They trust to the wilds for bread.
But now will I teach henceforward
By the work of my hands instead.

"In their sight I will set the lesson,
And, gazing across the tarn,
They shall see on its nether border
The byre and the hurdled barn
And the barley that yet shall cover
The barrows of Landisfarne."

Therewith from his Melrose cloister
St. Cuthbert fared away,
He felled the wood, and the meadow
Soon bore rich swathes of hay;
And up and down in the furrow
He toiled through the long some day.

And it came to pass when the autumn
The ground with its sere leaves strowed,
When the purple was on the moorlands
And the rust on the summer sod,
That ripe to be reapt the barley
Now whitened the hillside broad.

Then certain among the people
(Fierce folk, who had laughed to scorn
The cark of the steady toiler,
While riot and hunt and horn
Were wiling them in the greenwood)
Cried. "Never Northumbrian born

Shall make of his sword a sickle
Or help to winnow the heap,
Let him who hath eared now garner
His grain as he may, or sleep
And pray the good Lord he serveth
That his angels may come and reap!"

Right sadly St. Cuthbert listened,
And, bowing the while his head
For a meek and a holy patience
(As he lay on his rush-strewn bed)
And for strength for the morrow's labor,
In face of their scorn he plead.

Then he dreamed that he saw descending
On the edge of the moonlit tarn
A circle of shining reapers,
Who heaped in his moss-thatched barn
The harvest their golden sickles
Had gathered at Landisfarne.

In the gray of the cool, crisp morning,
Ere the lark had left her nest,
Abroad St. Cuthbert gat him
From his place of peaceful rest;
"For I must toil till the gl[illegible]ing
(He said) shall dusk the West."

Then he turned to look on his cornland.
Did he dream? Did he see aright?
Close cut was the field of barley
And the sheaves stood thick in sight;
For the reapers with golden sickles
Had harvested all the night!

A Lost Art.

REVIVAL OF THE ART OF LACE MAKING—A NEW YORK IMPORTER'S STORY.

It is well known among ladies who are connoisseurs in lace that the manufacture of old Point de Venise has been among the lost arts for upward of a century. Whenever one of our American princesses on her round of morning shopping asks for Point de Venise, the salesman who is well informed in laces knows at once that his customer is not. If he is sharp, shrewd, and unscrupulous, he practices a deception by showing the lady some other lace; if he is honest he tells her the truth. A representative of the Sun, while looking for items for a trade report a few days ago, gathered the following facts from a lace importer and head of the lace department in a wholesale dry goods house, whose cash receipts from sales amount to over $60,000,000 annually.

About five years before the fall of Paris and banishment of Napoleon III. the Empress Eugenie discovered one day, among a lot of old laces which had been transferred to her as souvenirs of the Empress Josephine, and which her daughter, Queen Hortense, had religiously preserved as relics of her illustrious mother, about a quarter of a yard of a lace flounce of a [illegible] singular and beautiful mesh and peculiar design. The ex-Empress is a dilettante and connoisseur in laces as well as in many other fine arts. She saw at a glance that she possessed an art treasure, the more valuable as it was yellow with age, broken and mutilated. She sent at once for M. De Lisle, the President of the Compagnie des Indes, [illegible] manufacturers of Paris, and spreading the [illegible] before his admiring eyes said:

"Monsieur, I wish this lace reproduced, mesh and design, in full lace dress for myself. Can your lace makers do it?"

Bowing low before the beautiful woman, the manufacturer replied:

"Your Royal Highness gives me a difficult commission, one, I fear, impossible to perform. Your remnant is real old Point de Venise, of which there are but few samples in existence, and the art of making it is lost."

"Can we not revive it?" asked the Empress. "I give you carte blanche in making the experiment, and another carte blanche for my dress when finished."

"Madame, I will see what can be done. If possible it will be accomplished," and bowing again he retired from the royal presence, taking with him the old piece of Point de Venise.

When an Empress commands everybody hastens to obey. So the President of the Compagnie des Indes lost no time. He first submitted the sample of Queen Hortense's relic to his own adult experienced lace makers. None knew the mesh. He placed it under powerful lenses no better success. Its intricacy baffled them all. No instrument, however fine, nor fingers the most skilled, under eyes the most practiced, could tell how it could be reproduced. Our manufacturer was perplexed, but not in despair. His next step was to ransack the whole empire for the oldest lace makers living. About forty old women, septuagenarians and octogenarians, were taken to Paris. They were provided with the best of glasses and most powerful hand lenses. One after the other examined the old flounce. Alas! not one knew the mesh. M. De Lisle was almost desperate. He had tried adult ingenuity and the experience of age, now he must resort to youth. He selected from his young girls twenty of the most intelligent workers—those with the strongest eyes and deftest fingers. To each he gave a section of the old sample. He provided them with lenses and every appliance for work. In the meantime they were secluded and given every necessary comfort, so that their eyes, their fingers and their minds might be in perfect working order. He watched the work from day to day and week to week; still no progress seemed to be made. At length he left the house one evening almost persuaded to give up the experiment. This was about one year after the imperial order had been given. The next day he was late in reaching his office; but as soon as he arrived the superintendent of the lace workers met him with the long wished for, welcome, but almost incredible intelligence that one of the young girls had discovered the old Point de Venise mesh. The President hurried to the room where the successful young worker was bending over her lace cushion. He seized a lens, examined the work in her hands, compared it with the original, and a quiet smile stole over his features.

"Eh bien!" he exclaimed softly, "Il est achevé!"

Turning to the successful discoverer he rewarded her with the place of teacher to the others and general superintendent of the work, and communicated with the Empress, who among all her engagements had kept diligent watch of the progress of affairs.

Now the work was begun in earnest. It was four years before it approached completion, but from time to time the Empress visited the manufactory, showing the greatest joy and pride that a lost art had been restored by the lace weavers of France in her reign. Before the dress was finished Paris was in ashes and Eugenie an exile. But the lace weavers escaped the general destruction and Eugenie's dress was spared. The generous and noble woman did not forget M. De Lisle nor her order. She wrote to him from England, saying that "though no longer an Empress nor enjoying the income of royalty, she would take the dress when finished, if he should be loser by keeping it."

The manufacturer not to be outdone in nobility or generosity, laid the case as stated in the Empress' letter before the directors of the company. They were touched with the misfortunes and genuine nobility of the beautiful woman, and unanimously decided to release her from her engagement. This now historic dress is now to be exhibited at the Vienna Exposition as the first specimen of Point de Venise manufactured in more than a hundred years.—N. Y. Sun.

A correspondent writing from Calcutta of theatricals, says that one of the most popular plays there, the "Nava Natak" (or New Drama), is devoted to the evils of a man taking a second wife while his first is still alive, and, after a series of domestic calamities, it ends tragically with the death or suicide of the principal parties concerned.

Gold in New York to-day, 11[illegible]

Portland Legal Tender rates, 85 buying; 86 selling

Gold bars are quotable at [illegible]

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 11s 10d@11s 11d; club, 12s 4d

The anticipations of a better condition of our local finances are not yet realized to a great extent, but the indications still seem favorable to a relaxation, though it is still claimed, and with a good show of reason, that a recurrence of the stringency will be felt during the fall season. At present the amount of loanable funds in our midst is better than a few months ago, but yet scarcely adequate to the demand. Hence rates for money are but little less than those heretofore prevailing, nor can they be expected to depreciate materially until the supply is increased, a contingency not very remote, if rumors which we hear of the establishment of another banking institution in our midst are true.

A favorable aspect of the money market at the East is presented in the fact that the "Rings," which, for some time past, have been laboring to depreciate our currency, have evidently expended their force, and they will now probably find that the gold market will react upon them. This hope is strengthened by the report of the U. S. Treasurer, made on the 1st instant, showing that notwithstanding the large disbursements of public funds, the National debt during the month of May was reduced $3,525,262. So long as all demands made on the National Exchequer are properly met, and every month a handsome balance towards reducing the National debt placed to our credit, so long will it be difficult for the enemies of our excellent currency to depreciate it. The most depressing feature in our financial horizon is the strong tendency of so large a proportion of our commercial men to import so largely. Instead of encouraging home manufactures by investing funds in legitimate lines of goods, and keeping such prominent before the trade of the country, there is too great a tendency to puff into notice foreign goods, and to gather up all the gold produced by our mines to send abroad to purchase foreign products. Thus we are depreciating the value of our currency and injuring the credit of the nation.

Grain in the Eastern States.

According to the Journal of Commerce, the Chicago elevators at the commencement of business on the 4th inst. contained 6,954,565 bushels of grain, embracing 374,260 bushels of Wheat, 3,891,759 bushels of Corn, 1,394,191 bushels of Oats, 220,755 bushels of Rye and 66,600 bushels of Barley. The amount of all grades in store the week before was 6,742,666 bushels, and for the corresponding week in 1872, 6,135,923 bushels. The stock of flour in that city on Monday the 2d, was 38,430 barrels, against 32,175 barrels at the same time last year.

The amount of grain in Milwaukee Monday morning, the 2d, was 365,825 bushels, 44,643 bushels of Corn, and 337,224 bushels of Oats.

During the month of May the receipts of Flour and grain at Buffalo add up 126,627 barrels of flour and 7,396,250 bushels of grain, making a total in bushels of 8,030,385.

The stock of grain in New York on Saturday evening, the 31st, was 46,007 bushels of Wheat, 239,000 bushels of Corn, 117,000 bushels of Oats, 40,000 bushels of Rye, 17,800 bushels of Barley and 167,000 bushels of Malt.

The stock of Pork in New York on the 1st of the month was 70,714 barrels, against 82,471 barrels a year ago.

The amount of grain "in sight" in the States and Canada May 24 was 18,399,076 bushels, embracing 5,272,624 bushels of Wheat, 9,368,137 bushels of Corn, 3,507,897 bushels of Oats and 250,218 bushels of Barley.

The Wheat Crop and Tonnage.

Every attentive observer has already become satisfied that the wheat crop on this coast at the approaching harvest will be very near, if not quite, as large as last, unless some unpropitious circumstance now improbable shall intervene between this and the close of the threshing season. California's crop will doubtless be larger than was anticipated a few weeks ago.

The Sacramento Record of the 10th inst.—good authority—says, "The wheat crop is beyond danger," and adds: "By far the larger portion of the wheat in the State is in the last stages of ripening, is passing out of the dough state, and is past danger of blasting or shrinking by north winds or other unfavorable changes of the weather. The straw being comparatively short, there is but little danger of the grain being beaten down by storms, or thrashed out by wind. We may, therefore, feel pretty well assured that our wheat crop for this year is beyond any probable danger of serious damage or injury. The returns to the circular sent out by the Record to all portions of the State are coming in and more favorable every day, and the probabilities are that the estimates published a week since will be proved to be rather too low than otherwise."

At San Francisco the demand for tonnage at present exceeds the supply; £4 is freely offered for grain ships to arrive for a direct port, and near by vessels now command £4 2s 6d. Engagements at these rates have been concluded there during the past few days; in fact, £4 is freely offered for September ships. The present outlook for a large business during the balance of the year is good; in fact, there is now little doubt but that we shall have as much grain for export in 1873-74 as in the harvest now drawing to a close.

Miscellaneous.

There is a great demand in Europe for the lower denomination of the United States loan bonds.

The total value of the product of gold and silver in the United States in 1872 was $63,943,857.

The managers of the Northern Pacific Railroad have resolved to limit their 7-30 per cent. gold loan to $30,000,000, of which $21,000,000 bonds have been sold.

Twenty-five ships are on the way from New York to San Francisco. Eight of them are out over one hundred days; twenty-one are on the way from Liverpool, nine being out from one hundred and six to one hundred and eighty-six days.

An exchange of the 6th instant says: The Pacific Mail steamer Acapulco, built at the yard of the Harlan Hollingsworth Company, Wilmington, will be taken to New York in a few days, where she will receive her machinery.

We have lately received several inquiries concerning the culture of hops in our State and Washington Territory, and would be glad to publish an article on this subject by some one who has had experience therein.

The bark Jane A. Falkinburg was chartered in San Francisco last week to load merchandise for Honolulu on terms private.

The price of £4 5s ⅌ ton was agreed upon in San Francisco recently for the charter of the ship Undaunted to load wheat at that port for Liverpool. She is a vessel of 2,000 tons carrying capacity. About the same time, at the same place, the ship Green Jacket, of 1,300 tons, with wheat for the same port was chartered for £3 15s 6d.

The bark Nuevo Borinquen was chartered last week to load lumber from Puget Sound for Montevideo at $32 per thousand.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—By reference to our dispatches it will be seen that prices for the old crop have declined to $1 65 per cental in San Francisco—an effect of the more favorable aspect of the crop for the coming harvest and the poorly supplied demand for ships. Buyers here are still offering $1 60 and occasionally securing lots at that figure.

FLOUR—Trade is inactive and prices remain steadily at $5 per bbl, for extra of fancy brands, good country brands quiet at $4 25@4 75; fine, $4; superfine, $3 75. The call for export is light.

OATS—The market is yet in tolerably fair supply, while the demand is only moderate. Dealers are offering 50 cents per bushel, including sacks.

BARLEY—We quote best for brewing purposes at $1 50 per cwt. There is no call for export, however, at these rates. Advices indicate a larger yield in our State this year than last.

FEED—There is no change in quotations. The local demand has somewhat improved since our last review.

HAY—Market for all kinds dull at $15 per ton for timothy, baled; $13 50 loose, and wild not wanted.

POTATOES—The new crop is coming in. In limited supply and prices vary according to the demand, from 2@2½ cents per pound. Old, scarcer at 50@55 cents per bushel.

EGGS—The receipt of the last few days have fallen off and some dealers who were a little short to-day paid 16 cents per dozen, though others furnished quotations 2 cents lower.

BUTTER—The market is abundantly supplied at our former quotations of 15@22 cents ⅌ lb for best. Miscellaneous lots, packed in sundry shapes and of all ages, sell for less.

BACON—We find one of the most extensive buyers in the city furnishes his prices for common country cured at 7 cents for shoulders, 9 for sides and 11 for hams, but we are assured that others pay 2@3 cents more.

HIDES—There is some inquiry at current rates, but prices are unchanged.

WOOL—We learn that some lots have been purchased in the interior at 22 cents per pound, though the few buyers in this market claim that it will not sell here for more than 20 cents.

Puget Sound Shipping.

The following vessels arrived at Valparaiso, Chili, on the dates named. April 8th—Bark Oregon, from Seabeck; 9th—Coal ship Elvira Alvarez, from Port Gamble; 28th—Fr. bark Resolu, from Victoria. May 7th—New ship Transito de Alvarez, from Port Gamble.

The bark Columbia, from Burrard Inlet, arrived at Melbourne on the 9th inst.

The bark Alden Besse was chartered in San Francisco last week, to load lumber on Puget Sound for Hongkong, for $15,000.

Shipping Intelligence.

The ship Confidence was chartered in San Francisco last week to load wheat from Portland, Oregon, for Cork at the round figure of £4 per ton. Her measurement is 794 tons; carrying capacity about 1,160 tons. We are not advised as to the probable time of her arrival here.

The brig Kolos, recently in this port, arrived at San Francisco June 10th, having made the run from the Columbia river in three and a half days. A very quick trip.

FLORENCE!

THE BEST SEWING MACHINE IN THE WORLD. It does more work, more kinds of work, better work, and does work easier than any other machine.

If there is a FLORENCE within a thousand miles of Portland not giving entire satisfaction, if I am informed of it, I will attend to it without expense of any kind to the owner.

We have the new style of FLORENCE machine that feeds the work away from the operator (like the Howe or Singer) to meet the views of those preferring that style of Machine.

I have located permanently at Portland, and shall keep constantly on hand a large assortment of all of the latest styles of the Florence machine. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere.

I have also the agency for the celebrated NONOTUCK CO SEWING SILK and TWIST, JOHN CLARK JR & CO'S SPOOL COTTON, WILLISTON S C S [illegible] MACHINE THREAD, BAILEY'S PARAFFINE SEWING MACHINE OIL.

Sold on the installment plan.

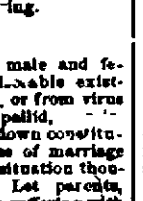
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years' standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, [illegible] and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life destroying [illegible] that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate [illegible], without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of the charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Weakness, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of [illegible], weakness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, [illegible] in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flush, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, [illegible], consumption, [illegible], [illegible] and [illegible]ity. If [illegible] be not obtained, [illegible] apply immediately, either in person or by letter, [illegible] have a cure [illegible] by his [illegible] and [illegible] mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove that he finally to him that he was cured of this complaint by [illegible] of the San Francisco doctors.

MARRIED

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the [illegible] responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is reliable, and will give to a patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin in a registered letter through the Post-Office or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper [illegible], intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus [illegible], certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.
